

Our second trip we started on boat with group from art lesson and our teacher – Matti Lukkari. Weather was sunny but windy.

After half an hour we came on destination - Island name Arja. It is lovely place with sandy beach and dunes with variety and wonderful flora.

Our first task it was prepare cottage for cold night. We had to hew the wood for fireplace and heated house. Also we had to take drinking water from well. It was new experience for us – exchange students but we did it as good as we could and we were proud of our self!

After that we created smaller groups and rest of our tasks we made in these groups. First art task was to visit island and find the best place, area for creating our landart. Land art (Earthworks or earth art) is the type of modern art that uses natural substances such as rocks and soil as its raw materials. It is often inspired by natural processes. Of course as many people is as many ideas are but we had to remember that we are one group and it was necessary to create work which everybody accept. We had to remember also to don't destroy nature. It was one of the most important point of our task – to respect natural environment. And we did it!

We could admire all works with rest of art group in the evening. We were surprised how these works changed during the day because of water and wind. It took other meaning and looking. After that we went as usually in Finland to sauna. It was really nice evening. We talked each other and had fun. Unfortunately it started rain so we couldn't as we plan make fireplace outside and roast sausages.

Second and last day we spend on built sand-work. Our group prepared mermaid.

We enjoyed like a children. Maybe because it reminded our childhood when we spent a lot of time in sandbox or during the holiday on the beach and we made all the time sand – work.

It was our last task. After that we goodby with our works and island and we came back to Kajaani. It was unforgettable adventure. I'll never forget this views...
